

Teacher Loan Forgiveness Program

Are you a teacher with a federal student loan?

Teachers with federal student loans from the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) Program and/or William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program (Direct Loan) may qualify for the Teacher Loan Forgiveness Program, which can forgive up to $17,500 in student loans, if certain eligibility requirements are met. Congress created the Teacher Loan Forgiveness Program in 1998 to encourage individuals to enter into and continue the teaching profession within designated elementary and secondary schools that serve low-income families.

Eligibility Requirements Checklist

You must meet certain eligibility requirements to participate in the Teacher Loan Forgiveness Program. Use this checklist as a guide to determine your eligibility. If you can answer “Yes” to all of the eligibility requirements listed below, you may qualify for teacher loan forgiveness.

Yes No Your first loan was received after October 1, 1998, and you had no outstanding balance on a FFEL or Direct Loan on or before October 1, 1998.

[One of the eligibility requirements is that you must be considered a new borrower. You’re considered a new borrower if you didn’t have an outstanding balance on a FFEL or Direct Loan on October 1, 1998, or on the date you obtained a FFEL or Direct Loan after October 1, 1998.]

Yes No You’ve been employed for at least five consecutive, complete school years as a full-time teacher in a qualifying school or educational service agency designated as low-income. Teacher’s aides don’t qualify for this forgiveness program. Employment can be at a combination of qualifying schools.

[Schools operated by the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) are considered low-income schools for teacher loan forgiveness purposes.]

Special Note: The five years of qualifying service may be in different eligible low-income schools. If your five years of qualifying teaching service wasn’t at the same school or agency, you must complete a separate application for each location. The specific name of the school or agency needs to be listed.

To view the list of low-income schools, visit the Annual Directory of Designated Low-Income Schools for Teacher Cancellation Benefits website at <https://studentloans.gov/myDirectLoan/tcliDirectorySearch.action>.

Yes No At least one of your five years of qualifying teaching service is after the 1997-1998 academic year.

Yes No You received the federal loan for which you are requesting forgiveness before the end of your fifth year of qualifying teaching service.

Yes No You’re not in default on the loans for which you are requesting teacher loan forgiveness. If you’re in default, you must have made satisfactory repayment arrangements with your loan holder.

[If you’re in default, contact Post Claim Assistance (PCA) at Navient Portfolio Management Services by calling 800.331.2314 or emailing pca@navient.com]

Yes No You haven’t received a benefit for the same teaching service through Title I, Subtitle D of the National and Community Service Act of 1990 (AmeriCorps).

Frequently Asked Questions

What if I received my loans prior to October 1, 1998?

You must be able to answer “Yes” to the following to be considered eligible for teacher loan forgiveness:

- | | | |
|------------|-----------|---|
| Yes | No | Your first loan was received prior to October 1, 1998, and you repaid all loans before receiving new loans on or after October 1, 1998. |
|------------|-----------|---|

[Congress did not include provisions in the legislation for the Teacher Loan Forgiveness Program to include forgiveness for loans received prior to October 1, 1998.]

Special Note: A consolidation loan isn't considered a new loan and doesn't qualify you as a new borrower. For example, if you have a consolidation loan that consolidates loans taken out prior to October 1, 1998, the consolidation loan is still ineligible for this program.

What if I experienced an interruption in the five complete, consecutive years of teaching service?

There are certain instances that are not considered an interruption in the requirement of five complete, consecutive years of teaching service. You must have taught at least one half of an academic term, the school district must have considered your contract fulfilled for the purposes of salary increases, tenure and retirement, and you must be able to answer “Yes” to one of the following exceptions:

- | | | |
|------------|-----------|---|
| Yes | No | You returned to post-secondary education on at least a half-time basis in a program directly related to the performance of teaching service required for forgiveness. |
| Yes | No | You experienced a condition covered under the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 (FMLA). |
| Yes | No | You had an order to active duty status for more than 30 days as a member of a reserve component of the Armed Forces. |

What if the school is no longer designated as a low-income school?

If the school was designated as a qualifying low-income school when you began employment, all subsequent years continue to qualify, even if the school does not meet the criteria. If you are initially employed by a school that does not meet the criteria and the school later qualifies, your five years of qualifying service begins when the school meets the eligibility criteria.

What are the next steps if I'm eligible?

If you meet the eligibility requirements for teacher loan forgiveness, the next step is to complete the Teacher Loan Forgiveness application. You and the chief administrative officer of the school where you performed your qualifying teaching service must complete the form. Once the form is complete, you will need to submit it to your loan servicer. You can obtain a Teacher Loan Forgiveness application form at www.ReadySetRepay.org/repaying/tlf.html.

Frequently Asked Questions

Who is the chief administrative officer?

The chief administrative officer is the official at your school (such as the principal, assistant principal or superintendent) who is responsible for supervising your employment as a teacher, and who has access to records relating to your experience and qualifications for teaching. The chief administrative officer must certify on the application that your teaching service met the requirements for loan forgiveness for all five years.

How do I know how much I may be eligible to receive?

The total amount of teacher loan forgiveness you may be eligible for depends on when your period of teaching service began, your qualifications, and the type of teaching service you performed. You may not receive more than the maximum amount allowed in loan forgiveness for the same teaching service under both the FFEL and Direct Loan programs.

There are different requirements for teachers who began their teaching service prior to October 30, 2004 and for teachers that began on or after October 30, 2004. The reason for two categories is that the Taxpayer-Teacher Protection Act was signed into law on October 30, 2004, providing increased teacher loan forgiveness benefits for certain highly qualified secondary mathematics and science teachers, as well as certain highly qualified elementary and secondary special education teachers.

How will the teacher loan forgiveness payment amount be applied?

Unless you instruct otherwise, your loan holder will first apply the teacher loan forgiveness payment received from the guarantor to any outstanding unsubsidized federal loan balances, then to any outstanding subsidized federal loan balances, and finally to any eligible outstanding Federal Consolidation loan balances. You are not eligible for refunds on payments you have already made to the loan holder.

If I do not qualify at this time but I expect to later, can I stop making payments on my loan?

You must make your regular monthly payments on your loan during the five years of teaching service. However, when the loan balance nears the benefit amount you qualify for, you may request your loan holder to grant forbearance in annual increments during each of the years in which you perform your qualifying teaching service. A Teacher Loan Forgiveness Forbearance form will need to be completed and submitted to your loan holder.

Your loan holder is required to grant this forbearance only if the lender believes that the maximum forgiveness amount you are seeking will pay your loan balance in full at the end of your qualifying teaching service.
